

Natural Wine

At Gonzo, we champion low intervention wines that are produced in the most natural way possible. Wine that is created using the purest farming methods, with vines left to grow wild + given space + freedom to grow, yielding the fruitiest grapes on the planet. No sulphites are added at any point. no filtering or fining gives as pure a product as possible, in keeping with the traditions of the past.

These practises can lead to a hazy wine with sediment in the bottles. The wild yeasts can leave a complex 'unky farmyard character, similar to Lambic beers that we also champion + 'pétillant naturel' may also occur, leaving a light carbonation due to refermentation in the bottle.

We think that low intervention or 'natural' wines are some of the fruitiest, most exciting you can try + we hope they change your perception of what wine can be, + push the boundaries of your tastebuds. Enjoy the ride!
